There are several ways for you to get involved:

- At a local level

One of Alzheimer Scotland's priorities is local campaigning, because the decisions that most affect the lives of people with dementia, their carers and families are often made locally. Campaigning varies from place to place, but it's all built on your lived experience.

- National Campaigning

If you are a person living with dementia you may be interested in joining the Scottish Dementia Working Group (SDWG), the independent voice of people with dementia within Alzheimer Scotland. The Group is run for, and by, people with dementia.

- If you care for, or previously cared for a person with dementia – our National Dementia Carers Action Network (NDCAN) is a national campaigning and awareness raising group whose members all have experience of caring for someone with dementia.

The Active Voice of people living with dementia and their carers is about upholding rights and driving change. We support people with lived experience to help influence and shape policy and practice – Your Voice Matters! You don't have to be politically minded or need any qualifications to be involved. The only important thing is you know what issues affect you as a person whose life has been affected by dementia.
